

Clover Pyone Sansoni for Postgraduate Taught President

For a PGT that punches well above its weight

Greetings all, my name is Clover, and I am running to be your next Postgraduate Taught President! Politics, whether electoral, student-led, or international, is an everlasting passion of mine, be it here at St Andrew's where I am part of the MLitt International Political Theory, or at Sciences Po Paris where I studied Political Humanities.

During my undergraduate with Sciences Po I had the opportunity to serve as a Deputy Year Representative. At that time the volatility of the Campus political climate had resulted in a student blockade of the campus. As a representative, it granted me the opportunity to mediate between the interests of the student body against those of the school administration, of whom each had conflicting views. As a result of our moderation, both parties came out satisfied with a reopening of the campus, and a communal student voice that punched well above its own weight. It is my intention to bring my experience to St Andrews PGT students and ensure that our small community is heard just as loudly!

My priorities as PGT President

- I will ensure PGT students are provided the same access to events, opportunities, and voice as undergraduates,
- The concerns of all PGT students will be addressed, either through myself, the Union, or the University,
- I aim to guarantee that the Postgraduate school is accounted for in university-wide decisions,
- I will aim to further support for mental health services and support for neurodivergent PGT students,
- I will post a mini-newsletter regarding all decisions and events which affect PGT students,
- Finally... I would aim to investigate more accommodation and transport options for postgraduates!

All postgraduate students will have my ear equally, and their concerns will always be at the top of my priority. I aspire to use my diverse personal background, and vast professional and academic experience to ensure I am amiable, proactive, and relentless in my determination to secure only the best for our community.

It is my promise that PGT will be inclusive, heard, and evermore a quintessential part of the fabric of St Andrews.
